

SYSTEMATIC DESTRUCTION OF REICH FROM AIR IS RESUMED BY HUGE FLEET OF FORTRESSES IN A DAYLIGHT ATTACK

American Bombers Go After Targets in Germany Just As Berlin and Ludwigshafen Are Digging Way Out of Ruins Created by RAF During Night—May Be Beginning of All Out "Blitz."

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(INS)—The systematic destruction of Germany from the air was resumed by a huge fleet of Flying Fortresses in a daylight attack today immediately following the largest assaults ever staged by the RAF against Adolf Hitler's Reich.

Escorted by fighters, the American bombers went after targets in Germany during the morning hours, just as Berlin and Ludwigshafen were digging their way out of ruins left by 2,500 tons of bombs dropped by the RAF last night.

(According to an N. B. C. broadcast from London, certain authoritative circles in Britain see in last night's raids a change in Allied air strategy which may be the beginning of an all-out "blitz" on German cities as a prelude to land invasion of the continent.)

Reliable quarters indicated that upwards of 1,000 planes participated in the joint Berlin-Ludwigshafen attack. Both assaults, said the Air Ministry, were concentrated attacks in which the bomber force employed the saturation method of unloading the greatest weight of bombs in the shortest possible time.

Bucks County Girls Are Winners of Trip

Two Bucks county girls, Margaret L. and Elizabeth Oehle, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Oehle, Warminster township, earned a trip to Springfield, Mass., as the result of their work in planting vegetables in 6,000 square feet of space. Ten girls and boys from Maine to Maryland were awarded the trip as winners of a contest conducted by a co-operative association.

The account of what was planted and the crops raised was kept by the older girl, who was 17 years old last winter. Her younger sister, a junior in high school, wrote the description of their work and these combined efforts resulted in the earning of the trip, their first one by train.

They cultivated broccoli, tomatoes, peas, sweet corn, Swiss chard, endive, parsley, squash, cauliflower, Chinese cabbage three plantings of lettuce and two plantings each of beets, cabbage, carrots and snap beans.

The Misses Oehle are now in Springfield.

FREDERICK LIBBY IS SPEAKER FOR SOROSIS

Subject is "After the War—What?"; Question Period Follows

KEEN INTEREST SHOWN

LANGHORNE, Nov. 19.—The Langhorne Sorosis session held in the library yesterday, was attended by 85 members and guests. Mrs. Lester Ransom presided, chairman of International Relations committee, with Mrs. Elmer Pickett, introducing the speaker of the afternoon, Frederick Libby.

During the early part of the meeting Mrs. Ransom requested donations for the welfare baskets at the next meeting, December 2nd. Mrs. Bertie Sylvester, of South Langhorne, vocalist, offered two numbers "Thanks be to God" and "Accept our Thanks."

Mr. Libby, representing the War Prevention Board, Washington, D. C., had as his subject "After the War—What?" In opening his discourse Mr. Libby read a letter from a young soldier in Africa, written after the said soldier had received articles concerning post-war plans. The letter closed with the plea that "There be no more war, and that those who have fought in this war be given a chance to speak concerning peace plans."

Mr. Libby read excerpts from an article entitled "Millions Must Starve" which appeared in a recent weekly publication. In the article it was stated that the United States would not be able to fulfill its promises to occupied countries in furnishing them with food, clothing, agricultural equipment, etc. As a result those whose hopes would have been aroused will be disappointed, and millions will starve, it was added.

The speaker of the day quoted Dr. William C. Farran, head of the United States Department of Public Health, as saying there are great dangers of soldiers returning from Europe.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Some Queer Advice

Washington, Nov. 18.—SINCE the recent election, emphasizing the strength and vigor of the anti-administration tide, the Republicans have been getting quite a lot of free advice about what they should do and what they should not do. Not all of this advice is disinterested.

Not all of it is good.

ONE OF IT comes from individuals and influences whose support no Republican candidate can expect against either Mr. Roosevelt or any candidate named by Mr. Roosevelt—particularly no candidate who stands on anti-New Deal platform and can add two and two together without counting on his fingers. These advisers include the Low water 4:06 a. m.; 4:21 p. m. professional "liberals," the Com-

Important To Advertisers

Due to the general conditions existing today in the newspaper publishing business and the shortage of manpower, it becomes necessary for the Courier to adhere strictly to a fixed time for the receipt of display advertising copy on and after November 22nd until after the Christmas holiday season.

All display advertising copy for insertion in The Bristol Courier must be at the Courier office not later than 12 o'clock noon, two days previous to day on which the advertising is to appear. We reserve the right to reject copy received after the designated time.

This rule is made necessary in order to give the mechanical department ample time in which to set the advertisement, and properly illustrate it. It is hoped that advertisers will co-operate and make reservations for space desired, and furnish their copy on time.

Copy will not be accepted after the expiration of the deadline announced above.

Five-Alarm Fire Ruins Trenton Dep't Store

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 19.—(INS)—Thousands of dollars' worth of Christmas merchandise was in ruins today following a five-alarm fire that demolished the five-story Gimbel store in the heart of Trenton's business district.

Scores of employees, preparing to leave the shop just after closing, were driven to the streets as flames mushroomed up through elevator shafts.

James Feehan, 43-year-old fireman, suffered broken ribs when a fire truck from an outlying district overturned to avoid collision with an automobile.

Deputy Fire Chief Valentine Burkhauser said the blaze apparently started when a coal furnace in the store's basement exploded.

SOUTH AMERICAN CUSTOMS RECOUNTED

Miss Mary Corbett Appears Before Newtown Parent-Teacher Association

ARTICLES EXHIBITED

NEWTOWN, Nov. 19.—"Our South American Neighbors" was the subject of an address given by Miss Mary Corbett when she addressed the Parent-Teacher Association in the Newtown high school on Monday.

Miss Corbett, who was in Rio de Janeiro from 1929 until 1941, informed that until a very few years ago few of the residents of South America spoke English. Through motion pictures they have picked up much of the English language.

Commenting on the customs of the natives, Miss Corbett explained very few wagons are used in making store and other deliveries, but the natives carry the articles on their heads. A few bicycles, it was explained, are used in making deliveries.

Much coffee is consumed by the natives, but they eat few vegetables, and because of the abundance of meat, this is used quite extensively. In spite of the good supply of timber very few of the houses are built of wood, but mostly of stone, slate and cement. Many of the women today, said Miss Corbett, are engaged in Red Cross work.

At the close of her talk Miss Corbett exhibited a number of articles she brought from South America. They included blankets, linens, dolls, jewelry, tapestry and candle sticks.

The brief business session prior to Miss Corbett's talk was in charge of the president, the Rev. Chester J. Buzzard, who announced a meeting of the Bucks County Council of Parents and Teachers will be held in the school at South Langhorne on Nov. 30. Mrs. Stanley Blinn was appointed to represent the local organization at that meeting.

Dr. Ross L. Neagley, the supervising principal, gave a short talk on school activities. In spite of the teacher shortage, he said, the faculty in the local schools remains intact. He stated that in response to a call for help, 49 boys and girls from the schools helped a nearby farmer harvest carrots and turnips yesterday. Two classes in farm machinery repair are being conducted in the local school. Mr. Neagley also announced the faculty play will be presented next month.

Directed by Clarence Rumpf, supervisor of music in the schools, the high school band rendered several numbers with Steward Scott serving as reader during one of the numbers. A trombone solo was also rendered by Harry Holmes.

At the close of the meeting tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Fromm, who was assisted by Mrs. Raymond Taylor and Mrs. John Gallagher.

IF NEW DEAL BLUNDERS WERE MEASURED IN TERMS OF DOLLARS, WE COULD PAY OFF THE NATIONAL DEBT, SAYS G. MASON OWLETT

HARRISBURG, Nov. 19.—G. Mason Owlett, Republican National Committee member from Pennsylvania, said last night that this and other crucial states which administered crushing defeats to the New Deal in the November elections "may well become the battleground of another great American revolt" to bring about total collapse of "stratospheric bureaucracy."

Mr. Owlett, addressing the Council of Republican Women at a meeting attended by Republican National Chairman Harrison E. Spangler, said that Republicans had captured at least 27 additional county offices in this state as a demonstration of the powerful anti-administration trend now sweeping the nation.

In a critical indictment of New Deal bungling on the home front,

DISCUSS LAKE BEAUTIFICATION

Rotarians Express Views At Meeting for Improving Silver Lake Site

HAVE VARIOUS IDEAS

A community service program was conducted by Bristol Rotarians when they met in weekly session at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon. The program was under the direction of Dr. J. Fred Wagner, chairman of the community service committee.

The discussion centered around the subject of beautifying Silver Lake. Members joined in offering many possibilities for beautification of this body of water and surrounding area. Some proposals were that a park would best fill the needs of beautification; others thought that possibly a number of appropriate homes would also add greatly to the beauty of the section.

220 New Members Gained For Cornwells P. T. A.

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 19.—When reports were received last evening on the membership campaign conducted by Cornwells Parent-Teacher Association, it was revealed that Fred King was the winner, he having gained first prize by securing 55 new members.

Edwina Thomas was second, with 44 new members; and Christine Kelly, third, with 38. Those who secured two or more new members are: Janice Ross, Norman Yorty, Marian Ann Cobleigh, Laura Ely, Sarah Gottsabend, James Knight. A total of 220 members was added to the roster.

A "clean-up" campaign to be in operation for the next month was instituted, the plan being to round up all eligible who have not joined to date. Each scholar securing a new member will be presented with a tie war stamp.

C. Burnley White presided at the meeting which opened with silent prayer of Thanksgiving. Miss Audrey Lee Lathrop then singing "The Lord's Prayer." Miss Grace Paist was the accompanist.

Types of programs desired by the members were then discussed.

Miss Jane Kohler and Melvin Mack directed last evening's program. Motion pictures included films dealing with the problem of tuberculosis, and also proper nutrition. Miss Edith MacAdorey entertained with a tap dance; and Miss Lathrop's offering was a vocal solo "Only a Rose."

At the December meeting the annual candle-light service will be presented, including a play "Long Ago in Judea," the high school students taking part. Miss Grace Paist will direct the musical numbers.

John E. Burriss Tells Of Recent Scenic Trip

John C. Burriss, member of the faculty of Bristol High School, was the guest speaker at the Exchange Club meeting in the Elks' Home last evening when he recounted some of the experiences he and three students had when they made an automobile trip to the West in 1941.

Plans were discussed by members for the annual entertainment program given by the Exchange Club to the Bristol High School football squad. The program is scheduled for December 9th. Walter Pitzonka, president, was in charge of the meeting last evening.

Burriss told of many of the scenic wonders which he and the boys witnessed in the Rocky mountains. He mentioned the highlights of visits to Estes Park, Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon and Yellowstone National Park. A group of interesting pictures were shown. The students who made the trip with Mr. Burriss included George Molden, Albert Dowden and Richard Marchena.

ROHM & HAAS BAND TO GIVE CONCERT HERE

First of Series To Be Presented in High School Auditorium, Sunday

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM

The Rohm & Haas Company announces that the first in a series of concerts will be given by their concert band on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Bristol High School auditorium.

The band, under direction of Melvin Hopkins, will offer a program of music designed to appeal to everyone. An invitation is extended to all to be present. Admission is free.

The band was organized by Mr. Hopkins two years ago and made its first appearance at the opening of the Club House at Maple Beach. Since that date the band has attended many public functions and been well received.

The personnel of the band has become almost 100% representative of the Bristol plant employees. "It is encouraging to see these men at rehearsals after having spent a full shift on their regular job," a firm spokesman said today. "There is a youngster blowing his instrument alongside of an older man, the youngster learning the right way from the others' years of experience of professional orchestral work. And again on the woodwind section we have players who have and could again tour the country in bands of national repute."

Sgt. Jack Hopkins is welcomed back for this concert. He was employed in the fabricating section until his induction into the army. There his talent was readily rewarded by his appointment to the Aberdeen Post Band, as solo tuba player.

Arthur Lehman, of Fleetwings, will be guest soloist for the afternoon. "King Karneval" is his selection. An added attraction is the appearance of Barla Bartholomew. Henry Adams will serve as commentator and soloist in Mandala.

The musical program: America (Laurendeau); march, "Black Jack" (Huffer); overture, "Lustspiel" (Keiser-Bela); waltz, "Old Timers" (Lake); overture, "The Bridal Rose" (Lavallee);

Mother Feels Filling of War Prisoners' Packages Now Personal Task

ANDALUSIA, Nov. 19.—Sadness over news of some weeks past that their son, 2nd Lt. John Scarborough was missing in action, was turned to joy yesterday for Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Scarborough when the U. S. War Department announced that he has been located and is now a prisoner of the Germans.

The news brought more happiness than ever to Mrs. Scarborough in her work in Philadelphia of filling boxes for prisoners of war. "I'll feel as if I'm filling each one for John. And I know that when he receives his boxes he'll know his mother's touch is in each one," she said.

The mother added that she feels the young man is getting good treatment. Red Cross reports on German prison camps being so much more hopeful than those from prison camps in some other parts of the world.

2nd Lt. Scarborough had been missing since action over Germany October 14th. He was pilot of a Flying Fortress, and was based in England.

The soldier, who is single, is 24 years of age. He has been in service for 18 months. A graduate of Bensalem Township high school he trained at bases in Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Ohio, Washington state and Kansas.

WOMEN FERRY PILOTS LEARN TO FLY GIANT FORTRESSES

By Harriet Robnett

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 19—(INS)—Seventeen girls, the first to be trained at a B-17 school, are learning to fly the giant Flying Fortresses at Lockbourne Army Air Base.

All are Women's Auxiliary Service pilots and have embarked on a nine-week course to qualify them to become co-pilots in ferrying the bombers in non-combat areas.

Scorned by some aviation experts, who asserted that the feat was impossible, the WASPS are determined to disprove any theories that the so-called weaker sex is not "man" enough to pilot the Fortresses.

Their course is identical with that given men students. Selected for this new venture on their graduation from the flying school for women at Avenger Field, Sweetwater, Tex., they are civilian employees of the Army and receive pay equivalent to that of a second lieutenant.

They are learning everything about the "beautiful" bomber, from how to grind a valve to actual piloting. Their day begins, they will tell you, at 6 a. m., and includes four hours of ground school and five hours of flying around the capital city.

Although they may wear what they choose, most of them prefer the regular army trousers, shirts, and ties, issued them. Despite the masculine garb and grease smudges on their faces, they retain a becoming femininity.

They are attractive looking girls, most of them between 20 and 25 years old. They are former stenographers, school teachers, dictators and on down the line of professions once considered the sole careers a girl could have.

One, the 1939 western open golf champion, has packed her clubs away for the "greatest thrill of my life." She is Helen Dettweiler, a curly-haired blonde looking not unlike a contemporary, Patty Berg.

Miss Dettweiler, who also wrote sports for a Washington newspaper, came to the Flying Fortresses school from the New Castle Army Air Base in Wilmington, Del., where she was awaiting assignment to ferry planes.

The roller had accumulated 22 hours of flying over a period of four years. When she heard of the Texas flying school, she went to Cleveland to complete the 35 hours necessary to enroll.

"This is a dream come true," she exclaimed. "Ever since the Flying Fortresses came out, I have looked at it as a marvel of the age. And my first ride in one defies description."

Then, she grinned: "I've packed my clubs away. I doubt if I will the C. P. T. course at Cornell University, where she studied home economics. Most of the girls, by the way, received their 35 hours of flying to qualify them for the WASPS from the government C. P. T. course.

"This is a far cry from the state nutrition program I was working on before I began training," Miss Rochow remarked. "You have to work like a fiend here but it's worth it."

Twenty-six-year old Dawn expressed the feeling of the entire group when she said: "I think we all joined the WASPS for patriotic reasons. Of course we had selfish ones, too. We all love flying."

Only one complaint was voiced in the group. It came from Frances Green, of Galveston, Tex. Yes, you might have guessed it, her complaint was, "There's not enough cTAs up here."

Other girls in the unprecedented school are: Virginia Achier, of Terre Haute, Ind., formerly a personnel worker at Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti; Virginia Brown, Atlanta, Ga.; Patricia A. Panbroiling Cue: Pour Off Fat to Give Meat Its Due Panbroiling, one of the most common meat cookery methods, is a convenient way to prepare small steaks, chops and patties from beef and lamb, smoked ham slices and bacon.

These meats are cooked uncovered in a heavy frying-pan without the addition of fat or water. It is sometimes desirable, however, to add a small amount of fat when cooking beef or lamb patties to prevent sticking.

Panbroiled chops, steaks or patties are browned on both sides and then seasoned with salt and pepper. (All meats are more easily turned if they are allowed to brown thoroughly before turning.)

The meat may be started in a cold frying-pan. After it is browned, the temperature should be reduced and the meat turned occasionally. This will cook it more uniformly. A spatula or fork may be used for turning, but if a fork is used it should be inserted into the fat rather than the lean to prevent loss of juice.

If fat collects in the pan, it should be poured off, because when meat cooks in fat it is being fried rather than panbroiled, and there is a resulting difference in flavor.

The time required for panbroiling is approximately the same, or slightly less, than the time required for broiled meats. The following is based on meat cookery experiments conducted by the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Beef steaks, $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1-inch thick,

HAVE WON 5 GAMES

Bristol Still in the Doldrums
After Losing Two Straight Games

The undefeated Bridgeport high school eleven will pay a visit to the local high school gridiron tomorrow afternoon to stack up against the Bristol high school aggregation. Opening kickoff will take place at 2:15 o'clock.

Playing a curtailed schedule, Bridgeport has won five games and has scored 124 points while holding its opponents to 6. It has bowled down its opponents in every game with ease and intends to add the Bunnies to its list of victims.

Bristol is still in the doldrums. The Bunnies have dropped two straight games, losing to Burlington and P. S. D. The team is seriously handicapped with injuries to both its quarterbacks, Leo Johnson and Marvin Collins being benched because of injuries.

The long distance booting of Collins is being missed considerably and the bulk of the work is being forced on Joe McDevitt who is busy enough doing his other chores in the backfield.

Coach Charley Utz attempted to go places against P. S. D. with a makeshift lineup. He started "Bill" Nysse at the quarterback post. Nysse hadn't had any varsity experience but did a good job at the post even though he made a costly fumble in the second quarter. Joe Iannucci, who has been the regular tackle all season, was shifted to a backfield position.

There was no doubt that Iannucci made good for, in that first period drive against P. S. D., he carried the burden of the work in ploughing the line and at times gained six to eight yards on a plunge. Iannucci's place in the line was filled by Feele and Cordisco.

Another change that Coach Utz made last week was the starting of Tommy Childs and Favoroso at the end positions. The wings have been a problem to Coach Utz all season. Childs formerly played in the fullback position, but did not get a chance to see much action. But now as a wingman, he is getting his share of playing and is making good.

It is most likely that the Bunnies will present this same lineup in addition to Centonzi, Fallon, Oriola, and Mandio.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS PLAY SCORELESS TIE

Bristol High and the Bensalem High girls' hockey teams battled to another scoreless deadlock on the high school field yesterday afternoon. In a previous meeting, the two elevens had also played a scoreless game.

Both coaches, Kallenbach, of Bristol, and Church, of Bensalem, used all strategy possible in order to turn the tide of the contest and once Betty Poston, captain of the Bensalem lassies, had a clear field ahead and would have had a goal if she wasn't stopped by Audrey George, Bristol's goalie.

Several other attempts at scoring were made by both teams but all met with failure.

Outstanding for the Bristol team was the playing of Theresa Cahill and Sophie Bielecki while Betty Poston and Regina Silva did the best work for the visiting aggregation.

prison camps, particularly those in the east bringing diseases which may become epidemic.

As to the gap which will intervene between our total war effort and resumption of peace-time industry, Mr. Libby said: "It can only be bridged successfully by complete co-operation of federal and state government with private enterprise."

He commended the Moscow conference for definitely cementing relations between the British empire, the U. S. S. R., China and the United States.

"It seems," he said, "like the beginning of a new League of Nations, which would contain all nations, large and small." Mr. Libby was of the opinion that the world is not ready for a closely-knit federation of nations as there is "too much distrust among them."

The speaker praised the Connally Resolution as a step toward sovereign equality of peace-loving nations. He emphasized the fact that peace must be built on good-will and confidence. "The greatest tragedy of the human race would take place should a third world war follow this one. Great care must be used in drawing up peace measures, so that another war will be averted."

During the question period which followed, Mr. Libby said he earnestly desired that a negotiated peace would be brought about soon, so as to avert terrific bloodshed and increased starvation, which is bound to result through Allied invasion of western Europe.

When questioned as to how this could be accomplished he stated that if the Allies would relent from their declaration of unconditional surrender he believed a peace could be negotiated along the lines set forth in the Atlantic Charter.

major for 3,000, a lieutenant colonel for 3,500, and a colonel for the collection of 5,000 prepared tin cans.

The collection of 1,793,500 pounds of prepared tin cans represents approximately 7,174,400 actual tin cans that were prepared, collected and shipped to the detinning plants during the one-month period of September.

"There is still much to be done," Chairman Roberts stated. "We must continue to increase our collections and keep Pennsylvania in the lead not only for the satisfaction that comes from a competitive achievement but also for the satisfaction that comes when we have performed our patriotic duty. Tin from these prepared tin cans is vitally needed right now in the war effort and every can represents a contribution to victory."

FASHION PARADE

By Milo Anderson

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD—(INS)—Fashion acclaims autumn, with beauty and conservation allied as the keynote of exhilarating styles. Clear and crisp as the weather, the clothes silhouette is clean-cut, brisk and lively. Glamour and good sense find expression in bright color, quality fabric and fur variations.

Sparkling, vivid and vibrant, that catches the spirit of fall, is the stunning new dinner suit selected by Alexis Smith, Warner Bros. star to be seen shortly in the all-star musical, "Thank Your Lucky Stars." Soft grey wool is cut into a tapering skirt and semi-fitted jacket featuring a deep V, collarless neckline. In place of high pockets are scroll designs in simulated amethysts and purple bugle beads. A grey chiffon scarf, embroidered in a matching motif may be worn as an ascot tie or draped over the hair.

A gay plaid suit in autumn tones of red-brown, and green and yellow, is a favorite style with Joan Leslie, soon to be seen in the same picture. Good for through-the-day wear in town or country, it's both purposeful and spirit-lifting. It has a green velvet collar and matching buttons.

down the front closing and holding the flaps of the roomy pockets. With it, Joan wears a little snug bonnet of the velveteen and an over-the-shoulder pouch bag.

Most attractive is the new sports outfit chosen by Jane Wyman, featured player of Warner Bros. "Princess O'Rourke." A black ribbed wool skirt with trouser pleats and slit pockets is topped with a long-sleeved red jersey blouse and a clever drop-shoulder vest of red, green and black checked wool. It fastens with square black bone buttons that are tied on with red leather knots.

Ida Lupino, also starring in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," invests in a cloth coat trimmed with fur for fall. Its a stunning tuxedo of olive green wool with a shawl collar and front faced from top to bottom with warm brown muskrat.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

First geese of the season . . . Joe King, Edgely, shot a pair while duck hunting on Monday on the Delaware river. Together the pair weighed over 15 pounds. King said they were both exceedingly fat.

Coon hunter Bill Holmeister, Newtown, was out in that area Tuesday night with his dogs. Got two nice ones. Nick Rubino, Bristol, and Joe Melvaine, Eddington, were along on the hunt.

Twenty-five thousand recreational fishing kits for service men were ordered recently by the Special Service Division of the War Department, thus making official the efforts of the International Game Fish Association to provide such kits through private subscription. Sportsmen have contributed over sixty thousand dollars to the IGFA campaign which has already provided 31,000 fishing kits for distribution abroad by the Red Cross. It is expected that the War Dept. order announced recently will be followed by others so that every fighting man who cares to try his luck in his hours off duty will have tackle.

"Hundreds of thousands of boys abroad want to fish," Michael Lerner, vice-president of the IGFA declared. "They have time for it, during their hours of leave. They are anglers at home, and now they are posted on the finest fishing ranges in the world—rivers and lakes and the shores of the seven seas."

The kit, now being officially purchased, will fit into a pocket. It contains two handlines, a spoon, a feather, extra hooks and sinkers, a spearhead that may be fitted on any shaft, and a dip-net for catching minnows for bait. It is packed in a twill bag, together with instructions, printed on waterproof paper, not only for catching fish in all waters but for island and shore-line living. It is already in use in the far places of the world, contributing here an afternoon of relaxation and there a welcome addition to frontier larders.

"Because we knew how many of the men in service would want a chance at the fish in foreign waters," Lerner said, "it was always our hope that the campaign on which we had privately embarked would be made official. Only the Government can do the job properly. Our effort, which, through the generosity of folks on the home front, provided thirty-one thousand kits, was also an attempt to draw this want to the attention of official eyes. As fishermen, we congratulate the Special Service Division on the quickness with which they appreciated this desire of the myriad anglers now in the ranks. Fishing is an ideal rest and restorative—a perfect antidote for the strain and violence of war. With a sense of satisfaction we wish 'tight lines' to the many thousands of boys the world over—and with deep appreciation we thank those who contributed to the initial undertaking. We know the boys are going to enjoy these kits right up to the day they catch the two biggest fish alive—Hitler and Hirohito."

Harry Pittman and Joe Haines, both of Edgely, left Sunday for a week of bear hunting in Pennsylvania forests. They haven't returned yet so I don't know what success they have had. They are the only local hunters who went for bear, according to reports coming to my attention.

Could be pollution . . . Gille Hobbs, special fish warden, was called to Edgely a few days ago by George Stanley, Edgely. Stanley, it appears, came upon a strange looking dead fish along the river in Edgely. He couldn't identify it, so Hobbs was called. It turned out to be a sturgeon and measured three feet in length. I've seen just about every species of fish floating dead in the Delaware this year, except the sturgeon. Now the list is complete.

the program from a very comfortable seat in the cabin of Harry's boat. Saw just four ducks all afternoon . . . they were about a half mile high and flying on the Jersey side.
